

[Student Achievements] The winds rise in the northern frontier, and the voices of our youth resound — A record of our school's departure for the 9th National Middle School Model United Nations Conference (Part 1)

Baotou No. 95 Middle School July 30, 2025, 22:29

On July 29, the 9th National Middle School Model United Nations Conference, themed "Embracing the Motherland and Building Dreams for the World," was grandly opened in Hohhot, Inner Mongolia. More than 500 teachers and students from over 60 schools in 25 provinces across the country participated in the event.

This conference has established nine committees, including the United Nations Environment Programme, UNESCO, the International Maritime Organization, the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, and the Main Press Center. Topics cover global hotspots such as "Cooperative Response to Maritime Security Threats" and "Promoting Resilient Post-Conflict Urban Reconstruction," closely aligned with contemporary issues. Our school's Model United Nations Association has selected 10 outstanding students to participate, with 6 as official delegates and 4 as observers. The team is led by our school's Vice Principal for Moral Education, Liu Xing; Deputy Secretary of the Youth League Committee, Song Shan; and Youth League Committee member, Li Chongyang. The delegates will engage in discussions around the topics, deeply simulating multilateral diplomatic practice through consultation, speeches, debates, and document drafting. Through critical thinking, they will enhance their cross-cultural communication skills and global leadership, demonstrating the international vision and sense of responsibility of young people in the new era, and embracing the unprecedented global changes with a fresh perspective.

1 Opening Ceremony: Gathering the Wisdom of Youth, Initiating a Global Blueprint

The opening ceremony of this conference was solemnly held at the Chulechuan Conference Center in Xincheng District, Hohhot. In his welcoming speech, Wang Shiting, Secretary of the Party Committee of the China Foreign Affairs University, said that this year marks the 80th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations, the 70th anniversary of the founding of the China Foreign Affairs University, and the 30th anniversary of the introduction of Model United Nations activities to China by the China Foreign Affairs University. He hoped that through this event, young students would broaden their international horizons, pay attention to the fate of mankind, integrate their personal ideals into the great journey of national rejuvenation, and strive to become qualified builders and successors of the socialist cause.

2 Building Momentum: The Association Sets Sail Again, Dreams Embark on New Journey

This conference also marks the resumption of our school's Model United Nations activities after many years. At the beginning of this spring semester, our school organized a recruitment interview for the Model United Nations Association. The format consisted of an English self-introduction, a general knowledge quiz, and a leaderless group discussion. More than fifty students from different grades enthusiastically signed up. During the interview, students showcased their talents with one-minute English presentations, engaging fluently with the examiners using their extensive knowledge, and fiercely debating topics such as the US-China trade war and COP28. The recruitment process invited our school's Vice Principal for Moral Education, Mr. Liu Xing; Director of the Humanities Development Center, Mr. Li Shiquan; foreign English teacher Mr. Bruce; and English teacher Ms. Guo Huirong as judges. They quantitatively scored students based on seven dimensions: application materials, English proficiency, appearance, knowledge reserves, expression effectiveness, teamwork, and time management. Ultimately, 13 students were selected.

During preparations for the 9th National High School Model United Nations Conference, our school's Model United Nations Association strictly adhered to the selection principles of "fairness, impartiality, and transparency," establishing a scientific and standardized selection mechanism to select outstanding members as delegates. The selection process involved organizing a Model United Nations academic activity within the association's framework to assess the participating students' academic research abilities and international perspectives, evaluate their language expression and adaptability, and test their logical thinking and teamwork skills. After the conference, based on student performance and considering opinions from instructors, the school's Youth League Committee, and other stakeholders, ten students with strong political awareness, outstanding professional skills, and excellent overall qualities were ultimately selected as delegates to the conference.

On their journey through Model United Nations, students from Baotou No. 95 Middle School will navigate vast amounts of information and real data to gain a comprehensive understanding of global changes. They will hone their skills in public speaking, negotiation, and debate within rigorous procedural rules, and experience teamwork and leadership through clashes of positions and collaborative document drafting. International politics will no longer be a textbook concept, and UN agencies will no longer be out of reach. They will gain a broader perspective on the times, analyze challenges with more rational thinking, and embrace diversity with a more open mind. They will transform every heated debate into lifelong skills, and the grand vision of "building a community with a shared future for mankind" into a driving force for daily learning and a habitual way of life. With youthful enthusiasm, they will respond to global issues and write a brilliant chapter in the lives of young people in the new era.
